Specialist renewable energy
risk management solutions

About us

As the imperatives around developing greener and more sustainable energy solutions gather momentum, GIB have taken the view that it is extremely important to ensure that we can provide both existing and prospective clients with the most effective and qualified advice to respond to the complex insurance and risk management challenges. We have formed the renewable energy division under the leadership of Tanya van der Westhuizen who has many years of experience in dealing with renewable energy projects from "cradle to grave". Tanya is spearheading the strategy but will be tying into the extensive core of construction experts in the GIB and HW Insurance brokers fold, to ensure that we can provide a team of experts who can effectively respond to clients needs.

In conjunction with this, Tanya will work together with the extensive global network partners, to provide transparent and effective access to the global markets. These partners draw on a vast pool of specialists in both placement and advisory capacities. They have successfully handled and settled some of the most complex and high value claims in the sector globally.

Our team has proven that they have technical excellence, deep knowledge of the insurance markets and strong relationships to assist our clients with navigating the numerous options available. We have a wealth of experience and capability to respond effectively to our client's needs.
